Capsim+mentoring+learning Word, Excel, and CSS+projects is way too much. The professor had to pare down the course at the end. I worked on this course every day of the semester and was a massive commitment of effort and time.
Although, the material is good there are too many assignments taking majority of my school time.
11. Overall, this instructor is very good	0	0	2	5	3	4.10
His lectures go way over my head.
12 . The course workload is (1 = too easy, 3 = just right, 5 = too hard)	0	0	2	5	3	4.10

I think that this class is very helpful and important to my major.

Remove Capsim and public speaking. They have nothing to do with MS Word, Excel, and CSS. Leadership and presentations should be covered in different classes. This class should be limited to the computer programs and taught from scratch! Only advanced users will be able to keep with with Dr. Garrett's lectures. He pared down some of the course and came in one hour early. That alone should indicate this class covers too many topics.

A class that is challenging but highly beneficial.

Very friendly teacher. Would have liked to delve still deeper into Excel, exploring different formulas etc.

Course should be offered earlier, there is an overload of assignments.

Very thorough, and made class a lot of fun.
12. The course workload is (1 = too easy, 3 = just right, 5 = too hard)	0	0	1	0	1	4.00

I only wish this would have been one of the first classes I took instead of one of the last.

Overall, it was a great class. Some of the readings were a little long or unclear. Doing the presentations and watching your method of presenting was actually great feedback - it was nice to see what you needed to work on to improve on your communication skills.

This was a very good course. I enjoyed it tremendously.

The class brings a different but very positive perspective of communication.

This course is a very challenging course. Dr. Garrett is really trying to train and help students be aggressive and competitive in the IT industry. The course itself should be taught a "whole-semester (18-weeks) course", not as a 7-week session course, because the material is intense and students need time to fully understand what management in IT technology is. Overall, it's a really challenging course!!!

Considering that the Woodbury MBA program is geared toward working professionals, Dr. Garrett course workload is extremely heavy. The course requires 20 hours of work outside of class. Considering that students have careers that require 40 + hours a week, this is too much to handle. Most of the students in this course were taking time off of work to keep up with the coursework, that's not fair. Considering that the program is geared toward working professionals, students shouldn't be finding themselves taking time off work to complete the appropriate coursework. Thank you.

None at this time.

My main concern is the workload in this course. For working individuals this is very challenging, especially families and the time needed for family. The instructor is very knowledgeable and very intelligent. Pr. Garrett knows the subject very well and is very eager to explain it to his students. Overall the course is really good one, but again I think the workload is really heavy.
