- He's great, I learned a lot and I am grateful. However, being forced into groups is by far the worst aspect to this class. While I understand it is a simulation of the real world, some students are WU really could care less about their performance. For students who care, being forced into a group of people who don't care is EXTREMELY FRUSTRATING.
- One of the most helpful and insightful classes Woodbury has to offer. In an age where being computer smart is the new standard employers are looking for, this class offers a head start in exactly that direction. If there was one improvement I would have liked in this class, it would be a greater emphasis or more class time on the Competition. I feel like since it is a significant part of our grade, we should have had in class time to prepare with our groups, along with in class practice simulations of how the competition would play out. This improvement was drawn from the fact that there were several misunderstandings among groups regarding instructions on how to prepare for the competitions; and what better way to clear this out than to do a practice run in class?
